Life sentence in Trimble murder case

By COLLIN OVERTON

After three long years, the Cables can begin to heal.

The family of Lora Cable, a Milton woman who was shot to death by her ex-boyfriend on Valentine’s Day in 2017 at her workplace, met at Morgan Community Center in Bedford Thursday to reminisce and pass around old photos. Family members smiled and shared donuts as they remembered their “Lori,” who loved the outdoors, singing and photography.

“Those pictures we were looking at kind of say it all. There was never a dull moment with us. When we were little, we got along. When we were teenagers we fought like cats and dogs, and then as we grew older we got really close. I just remember having fun times with her. She was a fun person, we had a lot of fun together,” said her sister, Gina Cable.

An hour earlier, Circuit Court Judge Karen Conrad had sentenced Lora’s killer to a life sentence at the Kentucky Department of Corrections after a plea bargain on the charges of murder, an automatic life sentence; illegal taking of a firearm, a five-year sentence; wanton endangerment, a five-year sentence; and violation of a Kentucky domestic violence order or emergency protective order, a misdemeanor with a 12-month sentence. Riddle is eligible for parole after 20 years, said Courtney Baxter, commonwealth attorney for Henry, Oldham and Trimble counties. Court costs were waived.

“As the person who has to pronounce a sentence, all I can do is express my sorrow for both of you, both families, for the whole situation,” Conrad said. “I agree it is a horrible situation.”

Around 11:30 a.m. on Feb. 14, Riddle entered the First You Medical Center in Bedford, where Cable was a receptionist, and fatally shot her three times. Riddle had drank beer and bourbon, took a rifle from Cable’s home and placed bullets on the graves of two of Cable’s family members at Moffett Cemetery before killing her, according to a witness statement from Kentucky State Police Detective Mike Hindman two weeks after the murder. KSP Trooper Josh Lawson said a farm worker spotted Riddle’s car parked in a field around 6 p.m. that day, less than two miles from the shooting site. He was arrested 20 minutes later without incident.

Local school grad rates in range of 2018

By COLLIN OVERTON
Courier staff writer

Graduation rates increased or remained the same for schools in Jefferson County in 2019, new data from the Indiana Department of Education and U.S. Department of Education shows.

According to state data, Southwestern Jefferson County Consolidated School Corporation saw 92% of its seniors graduate, a 4.4% increase from 2018, while Madison Consolidated Schools remained at 86% for the second consecutive year. Federal data, on the other hand, showed Southwestern up 7.57% from last year and Madison down 2.21%. The state average for traditional public school corporations was 90.71% according to IDOE and 89.88% according to the federal government.

When compared to other Indiana public school districts of the same respective size, Southwestern was average and Madison was slightly below average.

As for private schools, both reports showed Shawe Memorial High School graduated all 26 students in the Class of 2019 while the Christian Academy of Madison had no students graduating last year.

Southwestern has seen rates fluctuate in the last several years, but stayed in the high 80th and low 90th percentile. An average of six students a year have needed waivers from the state to graduate since 2014.

Southwestern Superintendent Jeff Bates attributes much of the success to the Indiana Graduation Pathways requirements introduced in 2018, which allow students to personalize their graduation requirements based on their own vocational plans. Pathways and sending students to the Southeastern Career Center for vocational training has opened the doors for some students who don’t fit the “cookie cutter” mold of college preparedness, he said. Like Madison, Southwestern was an early adopter of the system in 2018, even though the district wasn’t required to until 2020.

“That’s a big part of it, that they couldn’t get a vocational pathway and graduate high school through that, rather than the traditional college route,” Bates said.

Bates said the same effect has been seen for disadvantaged students on free and reduced lunch. Both state and federal reports showed their graduation rate increasing by about 3%.

“It’s all related to that. It gives schools a chance to maybe individualize instruction a little bit more, so they have different options...you can plug kids into different arenas and allow them to maybe take some classes that they’re more interested in rather than the cookie cutter ‘this is what everybody has to do to graduate high school.’”

The superintendent said the same has applied toward

Father of teen killed in crash pleads, out of jail

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

Brian Ulysses James pleaded guilty to amended charges Thursday and was released from the Jefferson County Jail for time-served in time to attend the funeral Friday for his 19-year-old daughter, Brooklyn James.

James’ daughter was a passenger in a car that was fleeing a police vehicle Jan. 9, when the car crashed, killing her and another passenger, 18-year-old Tyler Cooley of Hanover.

At the time of the accident, a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Brian James on two counts each from 2019 for intimidation and criminal confinement as well as domestic battery and interference with the reporting of a charge related to incidents involving his wife, Jackie James, and daughter Brooklyn. He later was charged with possession of a handgun without a license and possession of a firearm by a domestic batterer.

At his initial court hearing earlier this week Jefferson County Circuit Judge D.J. Mote set bond at $100,000 cash but told James he would grant a furlough allowing him to attend his daughters’ funeral in some capacity.

On Thursday, with approval of the Jefferson County Prosecutor’s Office, James petitioned the court to immediately enter a guilty plea to amended charges of one count of intimidation, a Level 6 felony, and possession of a firearm by a domestic batterer, a Class A misdemeanor, and asked Mote to immediately pass sentence.

Mote sentenced James to 365 days in the county jail on the intimidation charge and 12 days jail on the weapon charge with the intimidation charge suspended with supervised probation plus court costs. He also granted James credit for six days jail served and six days earned credit on the weapon charge and ordered that he be released from jail Thursday.

At the request of Jackie James, Mote also vacated a previously imposed no-contact order that prohibited James from having any contact with his wife. That cleared the way for Brian James to attend Brooklyn James’ visitation, funeral and graveside service Friday without a police escort.

More testimony in Simpson hearing; next meeting Jan. 30

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

The City of Madison’s Police Merit Board has concluded testimony in a hearing involving Madison Police Det. Jonathan Simpson but will wait until Jan. 30 to discuss its decision in another closed session before announcing a ruling in a public session at Madison City Hall.

The hearing, which deals with the future of Simpson’s employment with the city after about a year-long suspension, included testimony by a number of officers and witnesses, all in executive session behind closed doors. The hearing began with an initial session Nov. 14 before three postponements and a second session Wednesday.

Wednesday testimony preceded a public meeting scheduled for later that night at which time the Merit Board could have issued a ruling. However, hearing officer Kerry L. Thompson, an attorney from Scottsburg, announced that the board would not deliberate the matter that night but would meet again Jan. 30.

“The board has decided that it will not deliberate tonight on the evidence presented in the hearings. The board will meet in executive session on Jan. 30 here at City Hall to discuss the evidence and review proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. There will be a public meeting at 6 p.m. on Jan. 30. A vote will be taken by the board at that public meeting on Jan. 30,” Thompson said.

“I want to compliment Mr. (Joe) Jenner and Mr. (Devon) Sharp on their presentation and compliment Mr. (Andrew) Duncan on his presentation. Whatever the outcome, Det. Simpson you were well-represented and I think the board heard what they needed to hear whatever the decision may be,” Thompson said of the hearing.

Jenner and Sharp, both Madison attorneys, participated in the hearing on behalf of the city and Merit Board while Duncan, of Indianapolis, represented Simpson.

Thompson also noted that if either legal counsel wished to submit proposed findings of facts and conclusions of law those needed to be submitted to him no later than Jan. 24.

“I know that is a short schedule but this board is only certain of being intact through the end of this month so we must act this month,” Thompson said. “I apologize for the short schedule. ...”

In other business, during the regular meeting, the board elected its officers for 2020 with the slate remaining the same as 2019 with Bill Andrews serving as president, Dave Adams vice president and Robert “Derma” Smith secretary. Other members of the board are Bob Waller and David Butler with Jenner serving as board attorney.

The board also agreed to continue holding its regular monthly meetings on the second Wednesday of each month with starting times at 6 p.m.

Bills in both Indiana House, Senate

Panel backs higher fines for underage tobacco sales

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — The push to toughen penalties on stores that sell tobacco products to underage customers is facing some questions over whether the proposed fines are too steep. Members of the Indiana Senate's health committee voted 11-0 Wednesday to endorse the bill, which includes raising the minimum age for smoking and vaping from 18 to 21 to conform with the new federal law. State Health Commissioner Kristina Box told committee members that 95% of smokers started before they were 21 and that vaping among teenagers is a growing public health problem. Box said raising the smoking age and tougher penalties on retailers was the "logical next step" to help prevent more people from picking up habits. The Senate proposal would triple possible retailer fines to between $600 and $3,000 based on number of violations in a six-month period. Some committee members questioned raising the fines so much, so those might be lowered when the full Senate takes up the bill. Nick Torres, a leader of the Tobacco Free Indiana coalition, said state excise police are only conducting spot checks once a year at most stores and encouraged a longer period for those fines to escalate. A House committee last week approved a similar bill, which is awaiting action by the full House.

Oldest state worker retiring at 102

INDIANAPOLIS — A 102-year-old man who is the oldest state employee is retiring after nearly six decades on the job, saying that "your body tells you when it's time to go." Bob Vollmer plans to report to work for the last time Feb. 6 as a surveyor for the Indiana Department of Natural Resources. The southern Indiana man, whose mother lived to be 108, joined the state agency in 1962. The World War II veteran still travels Indiana collecting technical field data and confirming boundary lines for DNR-managed properties, but he said that his body finally is telling him it's time to retire. Vollmer said he plans to spend his retirement devoted to reading and farming. He also plans to take trips to some of the South Pacific islands he was on during his wartime service with the U.S. Navy. Vollmer enlisted in the Navy after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941, according to a state announcement in 2016, when Gov. Eric Holcomb awarded him a Sagamore of the Wabash — one of Indiana's highest honors. After the war, Vollmer graduated from Purdue University with a degree in biological and agricultural engineering in 1952. He then worked for the Wabash Valley Association on reservoir and flood control projects before going to work for the DNR. During his DNR career, the tools of the surveying trade evolved from paper and pencil to high-tech gear such as a handheld GPS device.

Suit against IU gets class action status

BLOOMINGTON — A judge has granted class-action status to a lawsuit alleging Indiana University breached its contract by providing substandard living assignments to thousands of students staying in residential halls where mold was found. Monroe Circuit Court Judge Holly Harvey's Monday ruling comes as Indiana University's residence centers Foster and McNutt are being renovated, where mold was a problem during the 2018-19 school year. Those projects made more than 2,000 beds unavailable at the residence halls forcing students to live off campus. The renovations, which were originally set to take place throughout the 2020-2021 academic year, are expected to be completed by the start of the fall 2020 semester. Despite efforts to clean up the mold, university officials agreed that only a full-scale renovation of the residence centers would eliminate it, The Herald Times reported. So far, the project has progressed exceptionally well, said Tom Morrison, IU's vice president for capital planning and facilities. Plaintiffs are seeking to recover damages, but a dollar amount has not yet been determined, said Richard Shevitz, an attorney representing the students. But the university has provided millions of dollars to students affected by mold issues as part of a reimbursement plan. Michael McRobbie, IU president, announced the proposal in 2018. He also apologized. The university's Office of Insurance, Loss Control & Claims has provided $251,662.26 in reimbursements to students, according to an email from IU spokesman Chuck Carney. That money was used to help cover medical bills, replacement of personal property, laundry and relocation expenses. The university also put $3,000 in the bursar accounts of each student living in the two residential halls, which came out to a total of $7,374,000, according to Carney's email.

STATE BRIEFS

2 charged in killing in custody dispute

PORTLAND — Two women who are softball coaches at an Ohio high school were charged Wednesday with murder in the fatal shooting of a man that allegedly arose from a child custody dispute. Esther J. Stephen, 29, and Shelby N. Hiestand, 18, both from Portland, are charged in the killing of Shea Michael Briar, 31. The Portland man's body was was found Sunday along a Jay County road with a gunshot wound to the back of his head. Stephen and Hiestand were held Wednesday without bond at the Jay County Jail. According to a probable cause affidavit, Stephen and Hiestand admitted conspiring to kill Briar, who shared a child with Stephen. Stephen was allegedly angry that Briar had initiated court proceedings to establish parenting time rights for that child and was seeking to change the youngster's last name. Stephen and Briar were scheduled for a Feb. 5 court hearing on the custody dispute, The (Portland) Commercial Review reported. Authorities allege that Stephen went to Hiestand's home to pick up a rifle and ammunition before calling Briar early Sunday to invite him to spend time together. The women then picked up Briar up at his home and drove him to a bridge where Hiestand shot him once, the affidavit stated.

Kentucky

Longtime Supreme Court clerk to retire

FRANKFORT — A fixture of Kentucky's Supreme Court for 25 years is retiring. Susan Stokley Clary, the clerk of the Supreme Court, will retire Feb. 1. Clary has been clerk for three chief justices and is responsible for the custody, control and storage of all Supreme Court records. The clerk is also court administrator and general counsel for the court, and calls Supreme Court proceedings to order in the chamber. Chief Justice John Minton said Clary is synonymous with the state's highest court. "She has served the Judicial Branch with the utmost professionalism and dedication," Minton said. Clary was named clerk in 1995, and previously served as general counsel and court administrator for the Supreme Court.

State elections in even-numbered years

FRANKFORT — Kentucky's elections for governor and other constitutional offices would shift to even-numbered years, coinciding with presidential elections, under a proposal overwhelmingly approved Thursday by the state Senate. Attempts to do away with statewide elections in odd-numbered years have become a perennial endeavor in the Senate. Similar proposals died in the House in past years. In 2019, Democrat Andy Beshear won the race for governor, while Republicans dominated the down-ballot races. The latest proposal would move the election of constitutional officers — the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and agriculture commissioner — to even-numbered years starting in 2028. If the proposed constitutional amendment clears both chambers of the General Assembly, it would go on the ballot this November for Kentucky voters to decide. The measure passed the Senate, 31-3, on Thursday. It now heads to the House. Both chambers are dominated by Republicans. Republican Sen. Chris McDaniel, who has championed the proposal for years, said the switch to even-numbered years would increase voter participation in elections for statewide offices. It also would save the state about $3.5 million in election costs and counties about $13.5 million, he said. Sen. Robin Webb was among three Democrats voting against the bill. Webb said the tradition of elections in odd-numbered years "protects Kentucky's interests." If added to the state's Constitution, the change would not affect the 2023 election for statewide offices.

Officials to begin 3-year study of elk

LOUISVILLE — Researchers are launching a three-year study of elk. The University of Kentucky and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources are teaming up on the study, which begins this month and will focus on elk reproduction and survival, WFPL radio reported. The animals were native to Kentucky before being wiped out before the Civil War by unregulated hunting. They were reintroduced in eastern Kentucky about 20 years ago and the population has grown since then to about 10,000 animals spread over 16 counties. "We know a lot has changed. When we looked at this information, these were elk that were born into the west and brought into the east," said Gabe Jenkins, deer and elk coordinator with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Now nearly all of those animals from the west are dead. We have almost a completely new Kentucky bred, Kentucky-born population." He said part of the study will focus on how habitat in eastern Kentucky affects the animals.

Coal miners end paycheck protests

PIKEVILLE — A group of coal miners who blocked a railroad track for three days over unpaid wages have ended their protest, claiming victory with their paychecks. Miners and their families began standing on the tracks leading from Quest Energy in Pike County on Monday, preventing a train loaded with coal from leaving. The miners said they hadn't been paid since Dec. 16. The few miners who remained on the tracks Wednesday evening told news outlets they were leaving because they had received payment, which included overtime pay, vacation days, all other money owed to them and this week's check in advance. Miners said they were supposed to have been paid last week, but then the date was pushed back to Monday, then Wednesday. The group had vowed to keep up the protest until they received payment. American Resources Corp., which owns Quest, previously told news outlets the claims that workers haven't been paid since Dec. 16 were untrue. The company blamed a "temporary blip" in the coal market.

State of the Judiciary

System grows with specialized pretrial diversion courts

By WHITNEY DOWNARD
CNHI Statehouse Reporter

Indiana Supreme Court Chief Justice Loretta Rush (right) delivers the annual State of the Judiciary as Gov. Eric Holcomb (left) listens. Rush shared the growth of pretrial diversion courts for nonviolent offenders in the state.

INDIANAPOLIS — The Indiana judicial system has more pretrial diversion courts than ever before, with more than 100 courts specializing in services for veterans, drug addictions, mental health, domestic violence, re-entry and family recovery.

"These courts work because judges get out from behind the bench, convene community partners and truly connect with those standing before them in desperate need of a new path," Indiana Supreme Court Chief Justice Loretta Rush told legislators during the annual State of the Judiciary.

Rush shared the story of Army Specialist Jonathan Bushong, who suffered from "unseen wounds" after surviving a roadside bomb in Iraq. Through a veterans treatment court, Bushong connected with mentors, enrolled in Ivy Tech Community College and reconnected with family.

"Most of us will never serve in uniform, feel the stress from accompanying sacrifices or face the horrors of war," Rush said. "But what we can say is that if a self-sacrificing military member falls on hard times, we have their back."

The opioid addiction crisis in Indiana has separated children from their homes, seen grandparents raise the next generation, prompted evictions and more, Rush said.

Hoosiers with an opioid use disorder are 13 times more likely to be involved with the criminal justice system, Rush said. The justice system refers the bulk of Hoosiers to substance abuse treatment.

"The justice system must treat opioid and substance abuse disorders as chronic, treatable brain diseases — and not as moral failures," Rush said. "Judges must better understand addiction, treatment and recovery."

These diversion programs seek to address underlying issues for nonviolent offenders, who are part of what drives high incarceration rates nationwide.

She said a Jail Overcrowding Task Force was created to study the causes of, and potential solutions, to a system that has seen incarceration rates "skyrocket" while failing to address the underlying issues of substance abuse and mental illness for many non-violent offenders.

She noted that State Rep. Randy Frye (R-Greensburg) called the task force "an historic joint effort which brought an eye-opening overview of this complex issue. It illustrates that by working together we can transform the lives of incarcerated Hoosiers." Representative Frye, I agree with you."

"Some people need to be incarcerated. More people just need help. A strong justice system must do both," Rush said.

The annual address came with one request: more funding for legal representation.

"I recently spent a morning in a small claims court. The morning docket included 275 eviction cases. None of the defendants or tenants had legal representation. Not one," Rush said. "They all faced the judge and opposing lawyer alone. That is not the model of a legal system where the poor, disadvantaged and vulnerable are protected."

"Representative Randy Frye called the task force an historic joint effort which brought an eye-opening overview of this complex issue. It illustrates that by working together we can transform the lives of incarcerated Hoosiers. Representative Frye, I agree with you," Indiana Supreme Court Chief Justice Loretta Rush said in her State of the Judiciary address. "Some people need to be incarcerated. More people just need help. A strong justice system must do both."

Madison Co. up to 3 flu-related deaths

Risk in state high with 22 total deaths

By KEN DE LA BASTIDE
(Anderson) Herald Bulletin

ANDERSON — Three Madison County residents have died as a result of flu-related illness this winter season, officials said.

Stephenie Grimes, administrator of the Madison County Health Department, confirmed the deaths on Thursday.

She said a woman, age 49, died recently and had received a flu shot. The two other flu-related deaths were in people over the age of 65.

Grimes said a 77-year-old woman died Wednesday.

The Indiana State Department of Health reported on its website that, as of Jan. 4, 22 people in the state have died from the flu. This compares to the four deaths in the 2018-2019 winter season.

The State Health Department in the report for the week ending on Dec. 28 showed the nine people had died from the flu.

The number of deaths doubled in one week.

Greta Sanderson, senior communications manager for the State Department of Health, said flu seasons are unpredictable and it's not unusual for the numbers to fluctuate.

"While the number did go up from the previous week, it is well below the influenza-associated deaths reported through the same time in 2017-2018 and 2014-2015 season," she said.

Eight of the reported deaths have taken place in Marion County. The flu season continues through May.

"The flu is widespread in the county, but is considered moderate," Grimes said. "It is consistent to what we saw last year.

"I expect another spike or two over the next few months," she said. "It's a result of people being around other people. That provides more opportunity to spread the flu."

Grimes said according to state reports the largest number of cases being reported in Indiana is for children up to the age of 4. The second largest segment of the population is between the ages of 5 and 24.

"If your kids are sick, keep them home," she is telling parents. "Parents, watch for fever and dehydration.

"Parents know when their kids are sick and need to stay home or to see a doctor."

Grimes said the best ways to combat the flu is to get a flu shot, wash hands on a regular basis and to stay home when sick.

"Our recommendation is that everyone older than 6 months get a flu shot," Sanderson said. "It's the best protection against getting sick and can also lessen the severity of the illness.

"We also encourage everyone to practice the three C's: cover a cough or sneeze, clean by washing hands frequently with soap and water for 20 seconds and contain the virus by staying home from school or work," she said.

According to the state agency, there have been no flu-related deaths to any person under the age of 25. Eight people between the ages of 25 and 49 have died; five between the ages of 50 and 64; and nine deaths of people over the age of 65.

On Dec. 28, the Indiana State Department of Health reported the flu was widespread throughout the state and the risk was considered high.

The Jan. 4 report said the flu was widespread with the risk level at moderate.

Nationwide, the geographic spread of flu activity is now considered widespread in every state except Oregon and Hawaii. Oregon has regional activity while Hawaii's spread is localized.

OBITUARIES

Beulah Curl

Beulah Mae Zehr Curl, 87, of Madison, Indiana, died Monday, Jan. 13, 2020.

She was born April 27, 1932, in Birdseye, Indiana, to Theodore and Anna Zehr. She spent her early years on the family farm helping take care of her younger siblings. As a young adult, she worked at Central State Hospital in Indianapolis before she returned home, where she worked briefly as a car hop at Rips Drive-In. She married Peter Curl in 1955 and stayed home to raise their growing family until 1974 when she returned to work at Madison State Hospital until her retirement in 1994. She enjoyed reading, studying her Bible, crossword puzzles, sitting on her swing, watching the birds and most importantly, spending time with her family. She committed her life to Christ through baptism in 2015.

She is survived by her children, Earl, of Spring, Texas, Carol, of Dupont, Indiana, Tim, of Madison, Mark, of Mason, Ohio, and Edna and Carmen, both of Madison; a brother, Elvis Zehr and sisters Janice Wright, Mildred Geisler, Edna Bolden, Norma Porter, and Connie Wooldridge; four grandchildren, several great-grandchildren and nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband; two sisters, June Norman and Carol Zehr, and two brothers.

Funeral services were Friday, Jan. 17, 2020, at Lytle Welty Funeral Homes & Cremation Service, Vail Chapel, on Madison's hilltop. Interment followed in Grandview Memorial Gardens in Madison.

The family requests memorial contributions be made to the Madison-Jefferson County Public Library. Contributions may be made at the Lytle Welty Funeral Homes or at lytlewelty.com

The Corporation for National and Community service leads the effort to make The Martin Luther King Jr. holiday on Jan. 20, 2020, a "day on, not a day off." This year marks the 25th anniversary of the day of service that celebrates the Civil Rights leader's life and legacy. Observed each year on the third Monday in January, MLK Day is the only federal holiday designated as a national day of service to encourage all Americans to volunteer to improve their communities.

To find a volunteer opportunity, go to https://www.nationalservice.gov/serve/search

Trinity United special MLK Day service

Trinity United Methodist Church will host to a worship celebration for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Day on Jan. 20 from noon to 2 p.m. This celebration will include a lunch and a worship service by guest speaker Pastor Johnnie Edwards from the Second United Methodist Church in North Vernon, Indiana. The celebration is open to the public. Trinity United Methodist Church is at 412 W. Main St. in Madison, Indiana.

Schedule changes for MLK Day, this week

Closings for MLK Day

City of Madison offices, the Jefferson County Courthouse and Hanover town offices will be closed Monday, Jan. 20 in observance of Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

she was shot.

Gina Cable gave emotional testimony in court before the sentencing, holding a box of pictures from their youth and from Lora's funeral.

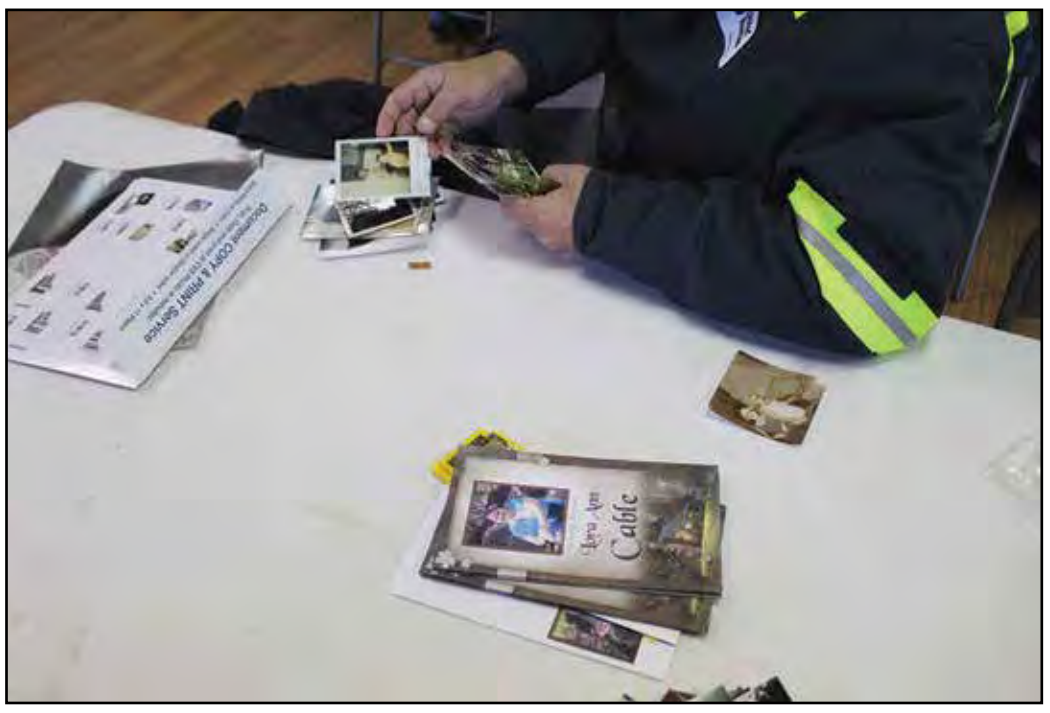
She spoke directly to Riddle as she detailed the toll he took from Lora and the family.

"I slowly watched by as I watched the brightness go out of her eyes. Her confidence was gone. She became the person who made excuses for the things you did or didn't do. She also became your caretaker, your free ride, your punching bag. Lori was a fairly healthy person, but her heart killed her," Gina Cable read.

Lora and Timothy, who were never married, separated before the murder, and for a brief time Lora was doing well, Gina Cable said. She was dating someone new and posted a picture of Valentine flowers from another man the day of her death. Gina Cable told WHAS 11 television that she believes that posting could have sent Riddle over the edge.

"She finally got rid of you. She lost 40 pounds, she got this light back in her eyes, she was happy, confident and moving on. But you couldn't stand it," she read to Riddle.

Gina Cable later said the relationship started out fine but deteriorated over 10 years. The person she intially thought was "a good guy" in Riddle would show himself to be an alcoholic with abusive tendencies, she said. She never spoke to any exes, but found police records and emergency protective orders from ex-girlfriends and an ex-wife filed against him.



The family of Lora Cable passes around photos and reflect at Morgan Community Center after Riddle received a life sentence.

"Tim, look at it," Gina Cable said in her testimony, holding up a picture of Lora in her coffin. "That's the memory I want you to see when you go to sleep every night."

Riddle's attorney, Melanie Lowe, read his statement to the court:

"I have seriously struggled to find the words to adequately convey my feelings about my terrible actions. Looking back, I'm ashamed and confounded as to how I reached the point of taking a life of another human being, much less the most treasured person in my world. While I know that my alcoholism played into that point, it is by no means an excuse. Ms. Cable and I were in a seriously dysfunctional relationship fueled in my part by difficult family history and substance abuse. While I know that she has her own personal issues, I can only take responsibility for what I did that day. It sickens me to think about the pain that I have caused her family and my own. Regret does not begin to touch the desparation I feel wishing that I could take back that day. I would gladly take Ms. Cable's place if allowed, especially if I knew that it would give some relief to her family. While I know that I was not perfect before the events of that day, I was mostly proud of my life and my accomplishments. That was erased. I will spend each moment of the rest of my life trying to atone for my crime. I pray for the opportunity to do anything positive that I can in this world to try to make up for some measure of the pain that I have caused. I'm sorry."

The sentence gives the family some closure after a trial that spanned nearly three years. Riddle originally pleaded not guilty, but accepted a plea bargain in December.

"It's a huge weight lifted off my shoulders," Gina Cable said of the sentence.

some special education students. Southwestern saw that percentage increase by nearly 4% last year, according to both state and federal reports. The Souteastern Career Center has been a major factor in that, he said.

While stagnant, Madison's rate from the past two years is an improvement from the 79.07% graduation rate in 2017, when 35 students needed waivers to graduate. In 2019, only eight students needed waivers and the administration is noticing improvement.

Michael Gasaway, Madison Consolidated High School principal and director of secondary learning, said dropout figures can be misleading due to students who leave the scool for homeschooling, or special ed students who get certificates of completion. Of the 23 who were not shown to graduate last year, three were students who got certificates, Gasaway said.

Rates among Madison students on free and reduced lunch also improved. That figure increased by 13% in 2019 according to federal data, and 10% according to the state report. Special education grad rates increased in similar volume, as the state showed 7% more graduating in 2019 and the federal government showed a 10% increase.

"The options that we have afforded our students allows them to be more interested in what they're taking, and I think that's why there's a big jump there; it's just because we have a more intentional and individual plan for each student," Gasaway said.

Like Southwestern, vocational focus has been a big part of that at Madison. The school corporation decided to leave the Southeastern Career Center in June, but has added internships at Madison Precision Products and River Terrace Health Campus in the past four to five years. Cub Manufacturing, Cub Engineering and welding classes have also been added in recent years, among other programs, and are the reason many graduate, he said.

To better prepare students for the real world, the district is doubling down on attendance. On Thursday, Gasaway sent an email to students and families notifying them that only 15 unexcused absences would be allowed in a school year, rather than 15 a semester as it had been.

"When we meet with our local business leaders and we hear from them the attendance piece is important —just showing up on time and being willing to learn — that's what they need, that hits home with us that we've got to make sure we're also stressing the attendance and not letting kids miss 20, 30 days of the school year and they still get to move on or graduate...it's not going to keep them employed if they're missing 28 times at their workplace."

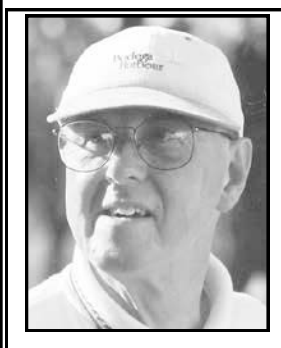
Shawe Memorial High School has seen only one student drop out in the past six years. Prince of Peace Schools President Phil Kahn said the parochial district's size has much to do with it, since that makes it easier to keep kids on task and work with them on post-graduation plans. Offering senior scholarships and bringing in military recruiters has also helped with graduation tremendously, he said.

"Our kids are pretty motivated too," Kahn said. "We stay on them."

The graduation rate among female students in 2019 was slightly higher than male rates at both schools and across the state, which showed females ahead of males by 4%. Madison graduated 88.24% of female students versus 83.87% of males. At Southwestern, girls were ahead of boys 97.06% to 89.29%.

Both school districts also appear in the median in grad rates in the region.

Jennings County School Corporation and Switzerland County School Corporation had slightly higher rates than Madison and Southwestern, at 95.88% and 94.57%, respectively. Both Scott County Districts were lower — Scott County District 1 had 75% and Scott County District 2 had 85.53%.



In Loving Memory of

Howard Clay Jackson, Jr., M.D.

Howard Clay Jackson, Jr., M.D., age 89, of Madison, Indiana, passed away on Sunday, January 12, 2020, at Thornton Terrace Health Campus in Hanover, Indiana. He was born October 31, 1930 in Rockport, Indiana to Howard and Dona (Stuteville) Jackson. He grew up in Rockport and was a 1948 graduate of Rockport High School. He attended Indiana State University and graduated in 1952. At Indiana State University, he was a founding member of the school's chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Upon graduation from Indiana State University, he served in the United States Army from 1953-1955 at Fort Knox. After being honorably discharged from the Army, he realized a lifelong dream when he enrolled at Indiana University School of Medicine. Upon graduation in 1962, he served his medical residencies at Good Samaritan Hospital in Phoenix, Arizona and Hanford Community Hospital in Hanford, California.

He moved to Madison, Indiana in March 1964 to begin his career in medicine as a General Practitioner in private practice. An active member of the King's Daughters' Hospital Medical Staff, he served as an officer, Department Chair, and Chief of Staff several times. In addition to membership in the Jefferson-Switzerland County Medical Society, Dr. Jackson was active in the Indiana State Medical Association, serving as delegate for many years. He was also a member of the American Medical Association, American Academy of Family Practice and a Diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice. Having served on the Board of Directors of the Jefferson County Mental Health Association and Southeastern Mental Health and Guidance Center, in 1988, Dr. Jackson joined the medical staff of Madison State Hospital where he provided on call coverage until his retirement.

He retired from his medical practice in December 2010 at the age of 80. During his over 46 years serving the community of Madison, he delivered hundreds of babies, served as the doctor in the pits for the Madison Regatta, served as the team doctor for the Hanover College football team, made house calls in the early years of his practice, and treated generations of family members. He loved being a doctor and worked tirelessly to be available and treat his patients at all hours of the day.

Throughout the years, Dr. Jackson has been involved with numerous fraternal, social, civic, and service organizations including the Madison Chamber of Commerce, Jefferson County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, and Jefferson County United Way. He was a member of the Madison Elks Lodge #524 for over fifty years, a fifty plus year member of the Rockport Masonic Lodge and Scottish Rite, an Indiana State University Alumni board member, Indiana State Medical Association member, Indiana Protection and Advocacy Services commission member, and past trustee and member of the Madison Chamber of Commerce and Madison Golf and Country Club.

In addition to his numerous professional activities, he enjoyed golfing and in his later years, the "choose up" at Sunrise Golf Course. Photography was a passion and wherever he traveled his camera was always with him. He especially liked taking photos of his family, the Ohio River, and the changing foliage of Madison and its hillsides. He was also an avid coin collector his whole life, an exercise enthusiast, and enjoyed fishing which he was recently able to do.

Survivors include his wife, Faye Jackson whom he married on August 1, 1974 in Seymour, Indiana; three sons: Clay Jackson (Cindy) of Indianapolis, Indiana, Tom Jackson (Leanna) of Santa Rosa, California, and John Jackson of Madison; one daughter, Susan Neff (James) of Concord, North Carolina; one stepson, Greg Johnson of Seymour, Indiana; one stepdaughter, Mitzi Lawson (Michael) of Hanover, Indiana; four grandchildren: Jamie Simontacchi (Jackson), Christopher Jackson, Megan Neff, and Erin Neff; two step-grandchildren: Nikki Helmuth (Johnson) and Abby Walburn, two great-grandchildren: Jackson and Carson Simontacchi, and two step-great grandchildren: Remy and Kimber Helmuth.

He was preceded in death by his parents: Howard (1954) and Dona (1999); his brother, Malcolm Duane Jackson (2018), and his first wife, Phyllis Virginia (McMahan) Jackson whom he married on September 7, 1957 at Trinity United Methodist Church in Rockport, Indiana and who passed away in 1973.

Memorial services will be held at 7:00 PM on Tuesday, January 21, 2020 at Lytle Welty Funeral Homes & Cremation Service, Vail Chapel, 117 Holt Drive, Madison's Hilltop. Friends and family may call from 4:00 PM until the time of the service on Tuesday at the funeral home. Masonic rites will be conducted by the Madison Masonic Union Lodge #2 F.&A.M. during the memorial service.

The Honor Guard of the Major Samuel Woodfill Post #9, American Legion and the United States Army will conduct military honors during the memorial service on Tuesday.

The family requests memorial contributions be made to the King's Daughters' Hospital Foundation or the Madison State Hospital Indigent Fund. Contributions can be made at Lytle Welty Funeral Homes & Cremation Service or online at lytlewelty.com.

REBELS 50, PACERS 46

Thomas gets the school record but Rebels get the win

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Southwestern spoiled Aleiah Thomas' big night — on her birthday no less! — and seized control of the Ohio River Valley Conference in the process with a 50-46 win in girls basketball Thursday in Hanover.

Thomas entered the game only five points shy of Brooke Todd's career scoring record but it took the senior nearly the entire game to reach even that total. The reason why was that Southwestern's stingy defense harassed every Pacer who got near the ball.

That defensive effort was enough to hold the Swiss at bay for 28 minutes, then force two crucial turnovers down the stretch and allow the Rebels to remain unbeaten in ORVC play.

"I'm really proud of the effort tonight because it was a complete team effort," Southwestern coach Devin Brierly said. "I felt like we were sharing the ball really well, we were all working well together and doing the things that we thought would win the game for us. I think they're feeling good and they should. They've been working hard and playing hard."

Southwestern picked up a win over Switzerland during the Rumble on the River Tournament in Hanover two weeks ago but there was every reason to believe this game could be different. Rather than playing a holiday tournament game at the end of a long day, this one was on a normal schedule and in conference.

Early on, it looked like it would indeed be different. While the Rebels bottled up Thomas from the start, the Pacers got 3-pointers from Maddie Duvall, Keirstan Oeffinger and Kyah Chase and another basket by Oeffinger to jump out to an 11-2 lead just over six minutes into the game.

But Southwestern (13-6, 3-0 ORVC) came right back and took over the game, ripping off a 21-6 run to close the half and give the Rebels a 23-17 lead at the break.

Southwestern continued its dominance through the third quarter and eventually pushed that lead into double-digits when Ashton Goode hit a free throw for a 44-33 Rebels lead with 4:31 to play.

A big reason for Southwestern's success was its attention to Thomas. The senior entered the game averaging a conference-best 18.4 points per game, but other than a steal and layup late in the second quarter and a layup late in the third, the Pacer star was held on check.

But Switzerland County (12-5, 2-1 ORVC) rallied. Starting with a pair of free throws by Chase, the Pacers ripped off a 13-1 run over the next four minutes, capped by a Jaden Harrell basket with 50 seconds to go that put the Swiss on top 46-45.

In the midst of that run, Thoms finally scored her school scoring record-breaker. Attacking the Rebel defense from the right, Thomas went hard to the basket and laid in the ball for her fifth and sixth points of the night to bring her career total to 1,216 and pass Todd for first on the list.

"I'm happy to be able to experience it. I never thought I'd be able to do it but I did," said Thomas, who also turned 18 Thursday. "I just remember watching Brooke and how great she is and how I wanted to be in the position she is. I just went out there and did it."

"It's definitely cool to see her come up right after I left and just to see that with the program is cool," said Todd, now a senior starter at neaby Hanover College who was on hand for the game. "I definitely knew at the time that she had good things in the future and when I came back and helped out in the summers I could always see the potential in here. She's an athlete and aggressive and I'm happy for her."

Cubs shrug off slow start to post victory

By JORDAN BEAR
Special to the Courier
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Unable to find the bucket in the first three minutes of the game, Madison girls basketball got off to a very cold start but slowly began to build a lead and then pulled away in the second half to grab a 51-40 victory over Corydon Central at home on Thursday.

Madison got a great start from star junior, Jade Nutley who quickly made her presence felt on both the offensive and defensive side of the ball. She then went cold from the floor on offense so the Lady Cubs needed someone to step up and Daesja Jay did just that.

Jay scored 15 points on the night to help pace Madison in the third quarter as the Cubs built a 20-point lead heading into the final period. With the game in control, Madison then subbed frequently late in the game while closing out the nine-point win.

"I love that kid I tell you. She comes in and you never know what she's going to do, she can make moves and hit shots all over the floor," Bowyer said of Jay. "She was huge for us tonight, I was so proud of the way she stepped up coming off the bench."

Bowyer said she told her team at halftime that they can't let teams like Corydon hang around because that's how games are lost.

"You let them stay in the game, and they will gain confidence and that's when you can find yourself on the wrong side of a game," Bowyer said. "I was happy because we came out in the third quarter and we had great intensity and we got it done."

Nutley had a big game for the Cubs with 15 points and 14 rebounds to go with six assists. Taylor Lynch scored just three points but added five assists and four steals.

Corydon was led in scoring by Ava Weber with six points.

Madison improves to 11-7 with the win against a team they could potentially come sectional time in February.

Rebels split home meet with Salem

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Southwestern's swim teams split a dual meet at home with Salem on Thursday.

The boys picked up nine wins scored an easy 64-15 win while the girls lost 97-53 despite seven wins.

"We swam 'off' events tonight to take their minds off the conference meet this Saturday," Southwestern coach Jay Crawford said. "Everyone swam very well. We had a lot of best times. Hopefully this will help prepare them mentally for the conference meet. Ethan Besse had a huge drop in his 500 free. He hadn't swam it yet this year, so it was fun to watch the improvement."

Ethan Besse, Andrew Stoner, Caleb Geary and Logan Williams accounted for all of Southwestern's wins in the boys meet.

Besse won the 200-yard freestyle in 2:11.72 and the 500 free in 5:56.13, Stoner won the 200 individual medley in 2:40.11 and the 100 butterfly in 1:22.31, Geary won the 50 freestyle in 24.79 and the 100 backstroke in 1:07.28, and Williams won the 100 breaststroke in 1:30.06. The quartet then won the 200 medley relay in 2:07.68 and the 200 freestyle relay in 1:55.16.

Williams was also second in the 100 freestyle in 1:08.29.

Belle Crawford, Julia Worcester, Amiah Owen, and Audrey Bare combined for all of Southwestern's wins in the girls meet.

Crawford won the 200 individual medley in 2:35.01 and the 100 freestyle in 1:05.14, Worcester won the 100 butterfly in 1:16.69 and the 100 breaststroke in 1:21.28, and Owen won the 500 freestyle in 7:11.59. The three then teamed with Bare to win the 200 medley relay in 2:24.49 and the 200 freestyle relay in 2:07.14.

Owen was also second in the 100 backstroke in 1:22.14 while Bare was fourth in the 50 freestyle in 35.75 and fifth in the 100 freestyle in 1:23.45.

Shawe's Ale Giaveri, his school's lone swimmer, picked up a win in the boys 100 freestyle in 1:07.12 and was second in the boys 200 individual medley in 2:46.98.

All three local schools will compete in the Ohio River Valley Conference championships at Switzerland County on Saturday. That meet has been moved up to an 8 a.m. start to accommodate the funeral of Southwestern senior Tyler Cooley who passed away last week.

February. Next up for Madison is next Tuesday night when Bowyer will take on her former mentor Donna Cheatham and the Scottsburg Warriorettes. Bowyer, who played for Cheatham at Southwestern, said she's ready for a tall task against another sectional opponent.

"They're going to want revenge from last year, they're a very talented team, and they're obviously very well coached," Bowyer said. "It's never easy to play there but I think my team is ready for the task."

HANOVER ROUNDUP

Four reach double figures as Panthers beat Transy

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Hanover survived a great individual performance by Michael Jefferson to pick up a 90-80 win over Transylvania in men's basketball Wednesday at Collier Arena.

Jefferson did everything he could to will the Pioneers to victory, hitting 15-of-19 shots from the floor (including 3-of-6 3-pointers) and scoring 37 points to go along with six rebounds and seven assists in the game.

Hanover countered that game with four players in double figures, led by Mark Albers with 23 points on 9-of-15 shooting as well as five rebounds and five assists. Isaac Hibbard had 19 points, seven rebounds and nine assists in an impressive all-around game while Connor Washburn came off the bench to score 16 points and pull down seven rebounds.

Freshman Ty Houston also reached double figures for Hanover, adding 12 points off the bench.

As a team, Hanover shot 63% (34-for-54) from the floor but was just 15-for-31 at the free-throw line. Transy was just 30-for-62 (40%) overall but 11-of-13 on free throws.

The victory allowed Hanover to remain one game back of Franklin in the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference standings. The Panthers, now 11-3 overall and 5-2 in league play, host Earlham on Saturday and travel to Anderson on Wednesday.

Women drop first HCAC loss to No. 10 Transy

Hanover's women lost their first game in HCAC play, 85-68 at 10th-ranked Transylvania on Wednesday.

The Panthers battled the league front-runner, trailing just 24-21 after the first quarter and 50-39 at halftme. The Pioneers then pulled away in the second half.

All five starters for Hanover scored at least nine points. Alexis Nall had 15 points and seven rebounds while Kristin Mills scored 15 points. Savannah Courtney had 13 points and five assists, former Switzerland County Pacer Brooke Todd scored 10 points, and former Madison Cub Katie Hartman had nine points and five rebounds.

Ashton Woodard led four Pioneers in double figures with 22 points while Zenoviah Walker and Shelby Boyle each had 18.

Both teams hit 27 shots from the floor with Hanover connecting at slightly higher average, 47.4% to 46.6%. But Transylvania landed 13 3-pointers to six by the Panthers and outscored Hanover 18-8 at the free-throw line.

Hanover, now 7-6 overall and 6-1 in the HCAC, hosts Earlham on Saturday and hosts Anderson on Wednesday.

Wome's track picked to win HCAC, men second

Hanover women's track & field was selected to win the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference indoor championship in voting by league coaches.

The Panthers earned five first place votes, racking up 95 points total. Rose-Hulman was picked to finish second, with 90 overall points and four first place votes. Manchester picked up the final first-place tally, with 85 points for third place. Earlham (64), Bluffton (57), Transylvania (46), Anderson (43), Franklin (30), Mount St. Joseph (28) and Defiance (12) rounded out the poll.

Rose-Hulman was picked to win the men's indoor title taking nine first place votes, for a total of 98 points. Hanover was picked second with 90 votes, with Manchester taking one first place nod en route to third with 80 points. Earlham (62), Bluffton (47), Transylvania (44), Franklin (43), Anderson (38), Mount St. Joseph (32) and Defiance (16) rounded out the poll.

Kenna Hunter, a senior sprinter from Monrovia, Erin Browning, a junior thrower from Greensburg, and sophomore distance runners, Arig Tong, from Columbus and Brianna Medcalf, from Central, were named as athletes to watch for the women.

Hanover opens the indoor season on Friday at Rose-Hulman. The Panthers compete in the Tom Hathaway Invitational in Indianapolis next Friday.

Thomas' record-breaker cut the Rebel lead to four at the time and seemed to give Switzerland all of the momentum. But that didn't last long. Moments after Harrell put the Pacers on top, Ashton Goode rscored to retake the lead for Southwestern.

Switzerland County then shot itself in the foot with turnovers on its next two possessions. Southwestern, meanwhile, got three free throws down the stretch by Ellie Foley to ice the win.

"I thought we started out OK and got out to an 11-2 lead. But I thought we missed out on a lot of 50-50 balls. We'd get a deflection and it would go right into their hands. It was that kind of night," Switzerland coach Mark Boggs said. "Our kids are resilient and they're going to be fine. We really feel like we can grow from these experiences. This didn't feel good, no doubt about it, but it feels worse when you do it in February. We want this to be a learning experience and hopefully it will be."

Neither team shot the ball particularly well with Southwestern checking in a 42% from the field and Switzerland County 39%. But the Rebels were 7-of-14 from the free-throw line and turned the ball over just 11 times compared to 2-of-3 free throws by the Pacers and 16 turnovers.

Trinity McLain was 7-of-11 overall from the floor and 3-of-5 on 3-pointers for a career-high 18 points to lead Southwestern. Foley finished with 11 points, five rebounds, four assists and four steals.

Jarell had eight points and nine rebounds while Chase, Oeffinger and Maddie Duvall each scored seven each for the Pacers. Thomas was held to just the six points.

"We tried to pay a lot of attention to Aleiah because she's such a good player. I was really, really proud of the defense effort in regards to her," Brierly said. "However, I didn't think we played defensively very well tonight. We definitely need to clean some things up but again I think our effort and playing hard helped erase some of those mistakes."

Switzerland County returns to action Saturday when the Pacers host New Washington. Switzerland then heads to Jac-Cen-Del Tuesday for another crucial ORVC matchup with the Class A No. 5 Eagles (14-4, 2-0 ORVC). Jac-Cen-Del is a half-game behind Southwestern in the conference.

The Rebels' game at South Decatur Saturday has been postponed to Jan. 28 in order to allow the team to attend the funeral of classmate Tyler Cooley who died unexpectedley last week. Southwestern's next game will be at home on Tuesday against another ORVC opponent, Rising Sun.

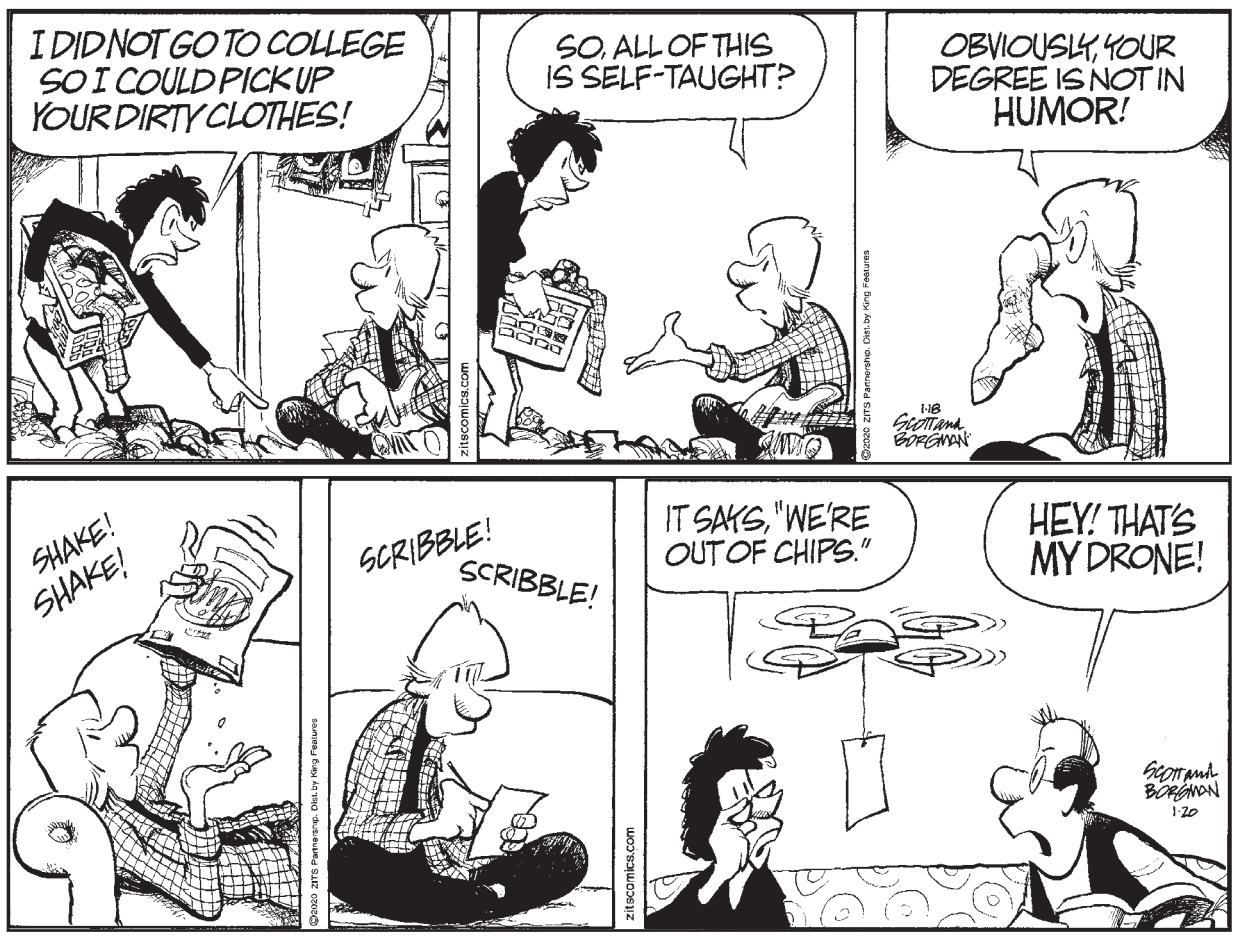
ZITS



I DID NOT GO TO COLLEGE SO I COULD PICK UP YOUR DIRTY CLOTHES!
SO, ALL OF THIS IS SELF-TAUGHT?
OBVIOUSLY, YOUR DEGREE IS NOT IN HUMOR!
SHAKE! SHAKE!
SCRIBBLE! SCRIBBLE!
IT SAYS, "WE'RE OUT OF CHIPS."

SALLY FORTH

MAYBE THAT'S WHAT I SHOULD DO, TED. NOT WAIT TO BE HIRED, BUT INSTEAD COME UP WITH A SMALL-BUSINESS IDEA OF MY VERY OWN!
WHY CAN'T I THINK OF A SINGLE CONCEPT?
WELL, IT HAS BEEN A WHOLE SIX SECONDS.
UNTIL I FIND A JOB, I SHOULDN'T JUST FILL MY TIME WITH BUSY WORK LIKE CONSTANTLY REDESIGNING THE HOUSE. I SHOULD FOCUS ON SELF-IMPROVEMENT. SO I WROTE ANOTHER LIST.
ANOTHER LONG LIST, I SEE.
I'D SCROLL THROUGH IT FASTER, BUT LAST TIME I DID THAT YOU GOT MOTION SICKNESS.

BRIDGE

YOU THINK OF IT, PLAY IT AND HOPE

Our friend A.N. Onymous defined an antonym as the opposite of the word you're trying to think of.

When the dummy comes down and you seem to be in an impossible contract, what do you do?

Many players make it apparent with their body language. They will mutter under their breath, shake their heads or immediately concede defeat. But the never-say-die type will try to think of a deceptive line of play that might work.

In today's deal, which occurred during a European Women's Team Championship some years ago, how should South have played in six hearts after West led the spade ace?

The auction was, if you will excuse the underbid, imperfect. West's first pass was an error -- she should have raised to four spades, especially given the favorable vulnerability. After North's takeout double, South should have jumped to four hearts. North's pass over four spades was forcing. When you bid a vulnerable game to make and the opponents sacrifice, you must either double them for penalty or bid higher. Finally, Sally Brock from England (South) jumped to six hearts. She had promised 0 points, but her partner had even carried three hearts to game.

The dummy was a big disappointment, but declarer did not give up. After ruffing the spade ace, she played a low heart to her jack and West's king. Now West shifted to a club, not to a diamond. Brock won with her ace, drew trumps with a heart to the ace and ran the clubs for plus 1,430.

‘Go buckets’ placed in schools

Supplies can help in case an emergency situation arises

Madison school resource officers (left) Tim Armstrong, Jacob McVey and John Wallace helped present “go buckets,” which are buckets full of medical supplies (above) that will be placed in schools in case of an active shooter or other emergency. (Courier staff photos by Collin Overton)

Schools hope they never have to use them, but in the case of an active shooter or other emergency, every classroom in Jefferson County will soon have multipurpose “go buckets” full of medical supplies thanks to an effort between Lowe’s, King’s Daughters’ Hospital and the Jefferson County Sheriff’s Department.

Madison school resource officers Tim Armstrong, John Wallace and Jacob McVey and KDH EMS Director Shane Williams presented the buckets to the Board of Trustees at the Jan. 8 meeting. Williams said the 400 buckets combined contain $6,000 to $7,000 worth of donated gauze, bandages, garbage bags, flashlights, blankets and other necessities from KDH for emergency situations. The buckets themselves — donated by the Madison Lowe’s store — are fitted with a piece of foam in case bathroom needs arise while on lockdown.

Williams said they address a problem widely reported in active shooter response cases.

“There were people there to help, but they didn’t have resources,” he said to members of the board, citing instances like the 2017 Las Vegas shooting.

The resources aren’t just for Madison schools; all classrooms in Jefferson County, including Southwestern, Prince of Peace Schools, Canaan Community Academy and the Christian Academy of Madison will get buckets. Williams said the amount of supplies in each is small, but with each classroom having one, the resources should be abundant.

“You get five of these packets thrown out in the hallway, you can take care of 25 people no problem at all,” he said, holding a zip-close bag full of bandages. “It has just a bunch of small things that look small on the offset, but when you try to use it en masse, you have a lot of equipment to bring together in position to be able to take care of kids.”

McVey said Tuesday that the district was organizing a date for all teachers in the school corporation to learn how to use the tourniquets and other supplies provided in the kits.

Replacing a beloved pet with a rescue or breeder puppy

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: Our beloved family dog, Dasher, passed away last year. Dasher was a husky. She was the sweetest and best dog I ever could imagine. Good with the kids and our old kitty. When I contacted the breeder I bought her from, he said that he is no longer breeding. My friend suggested I look at adopting a dog from the local shelter or a rescue group. I really want a husky, and our shelter didn’t have any but suggested I reach out to local husky rescue groups. Well, I did, and I found a great one.

After I filled out the application, a volunteer called me within 24 hours. She thanked me for considering adoption and gave me some very sad statistics about how many dogs get euthanized because of overpopulation. She then said my house will be a tricky place to find the right dog for. Most huskies have a strong prey drive and are not great with cats, small dogs or small children. I was taken aback because Dasher was so great with all of the above. When I told her this, she said my best bet would be to get a puppy and socialize the dog around kids and cats as much as possible. She said that her rescue group rarely gets pups in and that it could take a long time. I want to adopt, but I also don’t want to put the lives of my cat and kids in danger. Do you have any advice as to what I should do? — Adopt or Shop?

Dear Adopt or Shop: Whenever possible, adopt; don’t shop. I understand loving a particular breed and wanting a puppy of that breed. The way I see it, you have three options:

1) Wait until the husky rescue gets a puppy in.

2) Go on Petfinder and search for husky puppies. You may have to travel a bit to find a puppy, or it may not be a purebred husky, but chances are great that you can find a husky puppy. Sometimes mixed breeds are healthier than purebreds.

3) If you do decide to buy a puppy, at least be sure you know where you’re buying from. Kristina Lotz wrote a wonderful article for iHeartDogs titled “10 Signs That A Puppy Is From a Puppy Mill,” and I would recommend reading it before buying from a pet shop or breeder.

Dear Annie: Your column with the letter from widower “Neil” brings back sad memories for me. I lost my mother when I was 13 years old, and it was staggering. I had no siblings and an alcoholic father. Life was a mess.

Years later, I attended a seminar, and the most important thing I learned was how to handle major upsets. Here’s the way to do it. When thinking about an upsetting incident, write down the following questions and your answers: When did it happen? Where did it happen? Who was involved? How did you feel? What happened?

You might want to write the same upset down several times. Just do it. It will work. — Art in Oregon

Dear Art: Writing is a wonderful form of therapy. I second your suggestion. Thanks for it.
